Although doctors expect him to die, he survives but loses both his legs. As his colleagues prepare for his horror and devastation, they find instead a determination in him which refuses to be changed by the accident. HE re-enters the RAF where he is determined to continue his career as a pilot.

REBEL WITHOUT A CAUSE (1955)

In one of the most influential performances in movie story, James Dean plays the new kid in town whose loneliness, frustration and anger mirrored those of post-war teens – and still reverberate 50 years later. Nathalie Wood and Sal Mineo were Academy Award nominees for their achingly true performances.

THE SCARLET PIMPERNEL (1935)

Sir Percy Blakeney, alias the Scarlet Pimpernel, affects the mannerisms of an ineffectual London society fop to conceal his dashing escapades as saviour of aristocrats from the guillotine during the French Revolution. After a series of foiled executions, the wily Chauvelin becomes hell-bent on unmasking the “damned elusive Pimpernel”.

THE SEARCHERS (1956)

With The Searchers, John Wayne and director John Ford forged an indelible saga of the frontier and the men and women who challenged it. Wayne plays Ethan Edwards, an ex-Confederate who sets out to find his niece, captured by Comanches who massacred his family. He won't surrender to hunger, thirst, the elements or loneliness. And in his obsessive quest, Ethan finds something unexpected: his own humanity.

SOME LIKE IT HOT (1959)
